IKE WON'T USE TROOPS IN SOUTH

Stieska Unofficial Winner

Democratic politicians in Greensburg and Monessen were certain today, on the basis of "grapevine" reports, that Monessen Mayor Hugo J. Parente has lost another round in his legal fight for the city's Republican mayoralty nomination.

Although court decisions usually are made public only when they are officially filed in the office of the appropriate clerk, several leading Democrats indicated privately today that they know for sure the Westmoreland County court en banc will rule against Parente in his battle with John R. Stieska.

These sources said the decision of three judges will be two-to-one against Parente. They said Judges Richard D. Laird and Charles D. Copeland will form the majority on the decision. Judge John M. O'Connell, they said, will uphold Parente's contention that he is the Republican as well as the Democratic nominee.

Judge Laird previously had declared Stieska the lawful Republican winner in a decision overruling a contrary stand by the County Election Board.

To Appeal Case

The court en banc Monday heard the case re-argued on appeal by Parente.

The Mayor is expected to carry the fight to the State Supreme Court if, as forecast today, the county court rules against him.

Up until about noon today the prothonotary's office in the Greensburg courthouse said it had not yet received the decision. But the Democratic leaders said it probably would be filed later today.

These leaders did not give the source of their information about the impending ruling. One said it came from the "courthouse grapevine".

The two-to-one verdict with Judge O'Connell in the minority would jibe with the observations of attorneys and others who were present for the arguments Monday.

Laird Has Ruled

Judge O'Connell's comments and questions addressed to opposing counsel suggested, it was generally agreed that he was inclined to favor the Parente position.

Judge Laird, of course, had previously considered the question and rendered a decision in favor of Stieska. Judge Copeland, who normally sits only in orphans court, asked only general questions and gave little or no indication that he had formed an opinion.

All three judges are registered Democrats.

Stieska's claim to the GOP nomination rests on his contention, upheld by Judge Laird, that all the write-in votes cast for both him and Parente should be counted regardless of how the names were spelled or abbreviated.

Parente's attorneys claim that only the votes cast under the JET BLAST MYSTERY — Did one of these record-breaking jets, piloted by Marine Maj. John Glenn Jr. (above left) cause an "explosion" as it passed over the Pittsburgh area yesterday shortly after noon? What is known though is that the Navy jet plane crossed the nation in the fastest time in history. Glenn completed the 2460-mile flight in 3 hours, 23 minutes. Navy Lt. Cmdr. Charles Demmlet's plane was forced down in New Mexico.

Explosion Mystery Is Still Unexplained

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Authorities today sought an explanation for a blast heard over a wide area in Allegheny and Washington counties shortly after noon Tuesday.

There was no official word on what caused the blast, which shook windows in some sections and sounded like an "explosion" to many residents.

The best "guess" was that the blast was caused by a jet plane breaking the sound barrier.

(Several persons in the Donora-Webster area reported they heard the explosion-like sound shortly after noon. A check revealed no explosions in the district at that time.)

The Air Force said in New York that the Navy Crusader plane which set a transcontinental record Tuesday passed about a mile or two north of Pittsburgh at 35,000 feet at about the time the blast was heard here.

Hundreds of Calls

An Air Force spokesman said, however, a jet at that altitude would have to go into a dive for its sound-breaking boom to be heard over a wide area.

At Greater Pittsburgh Airport, the Air Force said there still was the possibility another jet plane may have caused the boom.

Police and firemen in the nearby South Hills communities reported receiving hundreds of calls from anxious residents wanting to know if there had been a big explosion.

Spokesmen for firms working on several big construction projects, including the Fort Pitt Tunnel job and the Allegheny County Sanitary Authority project, said the blast did not originate at these projects.

Racers Using Bridge Runway

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Police took measures today to prevent reoccurrence of an incident in which drag racers tried to turn a bridge into a private speedway.

The attempt by the racers was discovered when police noticed the word Drag" painted in bright yellow paint at the entrance of the 40th Street Bridge. On a pole a short distance down the bridge was marked Start" and the fraction ¼."

Exactly a quarter mile farther was the marker End." Down the center of the four-lane bridge was a bright red line marking off two lanes.

Zhukov Visit Has Ike OK

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower said today that an exchange of visits between Soviet Defense Minister Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov and Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson might be useful.

The President said at his news conference there is almost nothing he would not favor doing in an attempt to ease world tensions. But he made a specific exception. That exception, he said, is that no conference should be held which might raise world hopes and then dash them to pieces.

The President said however, that he could see no harm in a meeting between Wilson and Zhukov.

The President discussed the possibility of such a meeting when a reporter asked whether he thought an exchange of visits between the U.S. and Soviet defense chiefs would serve a "useful purpose."

The President answered that it might. He went on to say there is almost nothing he wouldn't do to try to ease world tensions—with the one reservation.

Seeks Peaceful Relations

Eisenhower said nothing is more important in the world today than trying to promote peaceful relations. He said the alternative is so terrible that almost all the risks he would take would be worthwhile.

The President also:

—Said it would be logical for the United States to build a nuclear weapons stockpile for use by NATO allies in case of attack. He said the United States has been studying means of arming NATO properly for some time. He refused to discuss the status of any nuclear stockpile plans. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles disclosed Tuesday that the United States was considering such a proposal.

—Said the idea that present Soviet bosses are trying to meet demands of their people seems to be sound. Eisenhower made the statement when asked to comment on the recent Kremlin shakeup. He said the changes result from pressures within the country.

—Said America's alliances with free world nations would fall apart if the status-of-forces agreements are drastically altered. Eisenhower said those agreements governing jurisdiction of GI's stationed abroad are absolutely essential to the alliances on which U.S. security rests. Without those status - of - forces agreements, he said, the United States would be compelled to bring its troops home.

—Said he is against recessing the London disarmament talks with Russia simply because some negotiators may be getting tired. He said it may be necessary, once in a while to take a break when new ideas come up. But the President said the negotiators must not get discouraged.

—Asserted there has been no general increase in Middle East

FACE LIFTING FOR NO. TWO FURNACE — Charles Steele, Blast Furnace superintendent, makes a last-minute check of No. Two furnace (in the background) before turning it over to contractors for a 2-½ million dollar remodelling. The furnace, a mainstay of the Monessen plant of the Pittsburgh Steel Co., will be down for at least 70 days to allow for extensive repairs.

Blast Furnace Will Get Face Lifting Here

No. Two Blast Furnace — a mainstay at the Monessen plant of the Pittsburgh Steel Co. since 1914 — was blown out yesterday for a 2-½ million dollar face-lifting.

The 43 year old furnace, which towers 110 feet into the air, will be turned over tomorrow to the John Morh & Son Contracting Co., of Chicago, Ill.

The remodeling work will take at least 70 days, according to Pittsburgh Steel officials.

During the shutdown, the more than 100 employes who normally care for the furnace will be assigned to other work in the mill.

This will be the first complete facelifting for No. Two Furnace, which has supplied molten iron for three wars as well as peacetime production at a rated capacity of 600 tons a day.

To Get Treatment

No. Two has had her share of brick relinings, one about every five or six years. However this time she'll get the full beauty treatment, everything from her rotary distributor at her top, down below her mantle to the supporting columns.

Mock Orders Revise Draft, Control Oil

WASHINGTON (UP) — The government issued mock orders today, 17 days after a simulated nuclear attack, which revise draft rules and place strict controls on the oil industry.

The "directives" were part of "Operation Alert 1957" — the nationwide civil defense drill that theoretically crippled the country on July 12 xy atomic bombings and deadly radioactive fallout.

The mock orders were aimed at restoring the nation's battered industrial base, restoring communications and mobilizing all available manpower for recovery.

Selective Service "ordered" local boards to expand their lists of jobs and industries critical to recovery and nuclear war. It also called for a renew of potential draftees for critical occupations and eliminated deferments for fathers in all but "extreme hardship" cases.

Hopes Congress Will Pass Fair Civil Rights Bill

WASHINGTON (UP) — President Eisenhower said today that although he has legal power to send troops into the South to enforce school integration, he could not imagine any set of circumstances that would lead him to take such action.

A reporter pointed out to Eisenhower at his news conference that he has the power to use troops to enforce the Supreme Court school decision under laws dating back to the reconstruction era following the Civil War.

He was asked if he was aware that a section of his civil rights bill now being considered by the Senate would carry forward the power to use troops if necessary to put into action the orders of a federal court.

Eisenhower said he had been informed of his powers under the reconstruction era laws, but he did not believe a situation could develop whereby he would have to use this power.

Hopes For Passage

He said he is very hopeful that the Congress will pass a reasonable, acceptable civil rights bill.

The troop use authority is carried forward in Part III of the administration civil rights bill.

Part III is the section which would authorize the attorney general to seek injunctions or other civil court action "whenever any persons have engaged or there are reasonable grounds to believe that any persons are about to engage in any acts or practices which would deprive anyone of any civil rights.

Southerners bitterly oppose this section, because it is tacked on to reconstruction era "force" statutes, which would permit the government to enforce school integration with federal troops.

On the subject of civil rights, Eisenhower said he did not want to discuss possible amendments to the bill while it is under consideration by the Senate.

Prefers Simple Justice

He said that, for the time being, he prefers to stand on his statement of Tuesday night when he expressed hope that the Senate would keep the bill as "an effective piece of legislation . . . consistent with simple justice and equality afforded to every citizen under the Constitution of the United States."

Eisenhower's views came amid reports that the administration is readying a major compromise on the civil rights bill designed to ease southern fears of strong-arm federal intervention in school segregation cases.

The reported compromise would amend controversial Part III of the bill to forbid the attorney general to intervene in school integration cases except by invitation of local authorities wishing to end segregation but meeting resistance.

Eisenhower seemed to give substance to the reported compromise.

Under prolonged questioning about the administration's stand on the civil rights program, Eisenhower told reporters he did not think it would be wise to grant Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr.

Monessen Band To Lead North Charleroi Parade

The Monessen High School band will lead off tonight's firemen's parade in North Charleroi, scheduled to start promptly at 7:30 p. m.

Parade Marshal William Metz said that 56 units — including nine musical organizations — will take part in the parade.

A special feature will be the appearance of the 509th Guided Missle group with their Nike bomb. In charge of Capt. Ernest Deadwyler, the Army group is located in Elrama.

The 312th Field Artillery, U. S. Army reserve group of North Charleroi, will also parade.

Musical organizations in the line of march will include the Monessen and Charleroi High School bands, Bentleyville, Carmichaels and Fredericktown firemen bands, Belle Vernon Blue and Gold Cadets, Rainbow Cadets and the United Boys Brigade of Monessen.

Much of Monessen's fire-fighting equipment will be on display during the parade, which is held annually in conjunction with the North Charleroi firemen's street bazaar.

Connellsville Joins Protest Of Water Plan

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa. (UP) — The city of Connellsville, through its Chamber of Commerce and Merchant Division, today joined Indian Creek Valley residents in opposing a proposed, huge water aqueduct and reservoir system.

The organizations asked Gov. George M. Leader to veto Senate Bill 676 so as to permit further study of the 250 million dollar water supply reserve planned by John H. Ware.

They said the giant mountain water system would affect 1,100 families in the Indian Creek Valley.

The organizations sent telegrams to the governor citing the general feeling here that the entire project was shrouded in "too much secrecy" and urging that before "tremendous powers of confiscation" are conferred on the Westmoreland County Municipal Authority more opportunity be given for study.

The telegrams asked that the authority "clarify" its plans on condemnation of properties that would be taken over to make way for the water project.

Fayette Pinball Test Opens in Court Today

UNIONTOWN, Pa. (UP)—Fayette County Court today takes up the legal question of whether the multiple - coin type pinball machine is a gambling device or an innocent game of skill.

The test case has state - wide significance. If the Commonwealth wins its point that the machines are gambling devices, it will seek to have them declared illegal in Pennsylvania.

The ordinary pinball game, which normally costs a nickel to play, is not an issue in the action.

The court hearing is to determine the legality only of the multiple-type machine on which the odds rise and potential "winnings" become greater as more coins are fed into it.

Attorney Louis C. Glasso, Pittsburgh, counsel for a Pittsburgh pinball distributor and for Veterans of Foreign Wars and Moose units in Uniontown, planned to call two pinball machine designers and several "expert" pinball players for the defense.

He said they would play the devices in court to demonstrate that they "are made only for amusement. . .and "just about anybody can beat the machines."

The test case arose after state troopers and local police raided 19 places in Uniontown, Connellsville and Brownsville on June 20 and confiscated 41 machines. No arrestes were made.

State police Capt. Frank Garnow, commander of the Uniontown barracks, said the primary purpose of the raids was to provoke a test case on their legality.

State Deputy Atty. Gen. Frank P. Lawley and state police Lt. Col. Albert Dahlstrom were here for the raids.

Lawley had asked the county court to declare the machines gambling devices and order their destruction, but the court deferred a decision until after a hearing.

Glasso said the defense would not advocate that an individual who "pays off" on the machines should not be held liable.

"We say the distributors and manufacturers should not," he said.

Glasso said "millions of dollars are involved" in the outcome of the case. Some of the machines cost $500 each, he said

Two Arrests by Monessen Police

Monessen police made two arrests yesterday.

Richard Neri, 19, of 576 Parkway, Monongahela, was picked up on a traffic violation. He was charged with passing in a no-passing zone, passing through a red light and operating his car with a loud muffler.

John Hrycko, 37, of 909 First St., was arrested on a disorderly conduct charge near the Iowa School Building. Police said they acted on a complaint by a North Charleroi man who reported that Hrycko was breaking bottles on Schoonmaker Ave

Casualty Toll High in Floods

MANILA (UP)—At least 400 persons were killed and another 1,500 persons may have been worst floods in Philippine history, reports from remote Pangasinan Province said today.

The flash floods triggered by typhoon Wendy swept entire villages away on the northern island of Luzon and some 30,000 persons were reported homeless in an area covering six towns.

It was feared that more than 500 persons may have been swept away by the surging waters of the Agno River.

The government was rushing new troops and relief workers to the scene.

Dog Catcher 'Rescues' Mongrel from Shaft

A mongrel dog was rescued from an abandoned mine shaft yesterday afternoon in Webster by the Rostraver Twp. dog catcher, of all persons.

Harry Staff, who "loves dogs," promptly turned the animal, "Blackie" over to its owner, Jim Wall, of Webster.

Wall told authorities the dog fell into the 25 foot shaft last Saturday. The mine opening is obscured by a growth of weeds and brush.

Yesterday Staff was informed of the dog, slowly dying of starvation. He immediately asked for the assistance of the Webster Fire Dept. Then followed quite a rescue operation.

A 20 foot ladder was lowered into the shaft. Staff was dropped by rope to the ladder. He quickly found the dog hungry, but healthy.

"You know I forgot to check to see if it had a license," laughed Staff afterwards.

The dog catcher was more concerned about another matter.

"A youngster could have just as easily fallen in that hole," he remarked. "Something should be done about it."

And the township supervisors have promised to do just that. They plan to cover over the hole in a day or so, just as soon as equipment can be moved to the site.

The mine shaft provided air for the old North Webster mine which was worked out almost a half century ago. For years a fence guarded the opening, but it has long since rotted away.

Allegheny Machine Tax Eliminated

Leader Signs Measure to Remove Industrial Machinery from Books

HARRISBURG (UP) — Gov. George M. Leader today signed controversial legislation to eliminate industrial machinery as an item of taxation for Allegheny County communities and school districts.

The machinery tax will be eliminated over a five-year period, with 20 per cent of its value removed annually from tax assessments. The measure goes into effect next Jan. 1.

The legislation brings Allegheny County's tax structure into line with that of the other 66 counties and the city of Pittsburgh.

Leader said he tried "conscientiously" to preserve the rights of local governments to obtain necessary revenues while considering the legislation for approval or veto.

"...I had grave doubts as to the wisdom of the measure, even though it provides for a gradual withdrawal of the assessments on machiery over a five year period," he said. "Those doubts have been resolved in favor of the bill because of the assurances made by maaor industries in Allegheny County that present assessments will not actually be lowered because the industries will accept a transfer of their present machinery assessments to land and building valuations.

"Accordingly, no municipality should incur a significant loss in taxable valuations."

The governor said Allegheny County commissioners unanimously urged him to approve the bill. He added that he "hoped" the commissioners would explain the facts which led him to support the measure to the various organizations which had asked for a veto.

"I may say that the experience of other counties where the machinery tax has been eliminated strongly supports the conclusions which the commissioners have reached and in which I concur," he said.

The governor contended that Allegheny County could not indefinitely continue a tax system "which isolated it economically from the rest of the state."

Leader said removal of the machinery tax coupled with the manufacturers' exemption from the capital stock tax which also goes into effect next Jan. 1 gives "ample proof" that Pennsylvania was willing to alter its tax climate where it is sensible to do so.

"The result should be a substantial increase in industrial investment in Allegheny County and Pennsylvania, provided that the claim of tax barriers has the validity which has been so often expressed," he said.

Some Allegheny County civic leaders and lawmakers had urged the governor to reject the proposal contending it would create a hardship by throwing an additional burden on the individual taxpayers.

One group presented petitions with 10,000 signatures asking that the machinery tax repealer be vetoed.

Sponsors of the legislation were Allegheny County Republican Reps. Lawrence V. Gibb and Ronald L. Thompson.

Fourth Turnpike Defendant Takes Witness Stand

HARRISBURG (UP)—The fourth of the nine turnpike trial defendants was scheduled to take the witness stand today to defend his part in Turnpike Commission contracts with the Manu-Mine Research and Development Co., Reading.

G. Joseph Hudert, Baltimore, associated with the J. E. Greiner Co. and former consulting engineer to the commission, was one of the chief representatives of the consulting firm at turnpike headquarters here during the planning and construction of the Northeastern Extension.

He and the other defendants are charged with conspiracy to defraud the commission in the negotiation of a 1955 turnpike contract with Manu-Mine, through which, the Commonwealth charges the commission was swindled out of almost eight million dollars.

Hudert was one of the turnpike engineering staff who recommended a mine-filling prject in the construction of the extension in an area where mine subsidence constitutes a hazard to the stability of the roadway.

Violent Winds Batter North Dakota Area

By UNITED PRESS

Violent winds, including an unconfirmed tornado, and torrential rains battered North Dakota Tuesday night, causing considerable damage in rural areas north of Bismarck.

The unconfirmed twister hit north of Bing, N.D., and considerable wind damage was reported at nearby Wilton, about 25 miles north of Bismarck. Farm buildings were levelled and power and communications lines were knocked out in the region. There were no reports of injuries, however.

Local heavy thunderstorms also swept rain-sodden Illinois, touching off new flood threats.

Cool air continued across the nation's northeast from the Great Lakes and Ohio Valley to the Atlantic Coast.

Weathermen predicted partly cloudy skies and scattered thundershowers for most of the country today. Mostly fair skies are expected along the Atlantic Coast.

Map Theft Suspects Move in Court to Suppress Evidence

NEW YORK (UP) — Two brothers involved in the theft of secret geophysical oil maps valued at one million dollars move in federal court today to suppress evidence seized by federal agents last December.

The two are Emanuel Lester, 32, who was convicted of attempting to extort half a million dollars from Serge Rubinstein, murdered financier, and his brother Edward Lieberman, 30.

The FBI arrested the brothers along with Odie Richard Seagraves and John Marvin Leivia, 34, of Orange, Tex. According to the motion the maps allegedly were stolen from the Pittsburgh office of the Gulf Oil Corp. by a man named "Smith", at the beginning of 1952

About 30 maps as well as reports and memoranda indicating the location of possible U.S. and Canadian oil deposits are mentioned in the action here. The entire case is said to involve the theft of some 2,500 maps valued by Gulf at $34,500,000.

The brothers, in affidavits supporting their motion, claim their constitutional rights were violated when the New York offices of the U.S. Tackless Corp, were raided by 10 federal agents on last Dec. 18 and personal papers as well as maps were seized as evidence.

Both brothers claimed that they were the sole owners of all the property confiscated in the raid with the possible exception of the "maps alleged to have been stolen."

Original Warrant

The original search warrant was sworn to by W. B. Edwards, a Texas attorney, employed by Gulf.

In Edwards' affidavit he swore he visited the offices of Tackless and saw a number of the maps which he recognized as Gulf property.

On his complaint U.S. Commissioner Earle N. Bishopp issued a search warrant. Among the papers seized, according to Lieberman, was personal correspondence between him and his lawyer as well as letters from his co-defendant Leivia "necessary to my defense."

Basically the brothers contend that the issuance of this warrant was contrary to law; that property seized was not described in the warrant which was illegally executed and that there was no probable cause for believing the existence of the grounds on which the warrant was issued.

The court is asked to return all the property seized and to deny the government the use of this evidence against them at their pending trial in Pittsburgh.

Recover Maps

At the time of the raid last December, BI agents recovered "many" of the oil company's geological and seismographic maps at the Tackless offices.

Lieberman was listed as president of the corporation which manufactures carpet grippers used in wall-to-wall carpeting.

The federal government took jurisdiction because the stolen property had moved across state lines.

Hubert I. Teitelbaum, assistant U.S. attorney from Pittsburgh, had said that the Lester group collaborated with Gulf employes in the theft of the maps from company files.

At one time a group of these maps were offered for sale for more than $500,000. A smaller number of maps was put on the market for $50,000 the prosecutor said.

Argument on the motion is scheduled before federal Judge Edmund L. Palmieri. Teitelbaum will oppose the motion.

Nixon to Take Part in Billy Graham Rally

NEW YORK (UP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon will take part in Billy Graham's mammoth Yankee Stadium rally Saturday, the United Press learned today.

An authoritative source said that Nixon will sit on the platform during Graham's sermon in the 67,000 - seat home of the New York Yankees. He is expected to address the anticipated capacity crowd briefly before the sermon.

Nixon told Graham when the evangelist was in Washington early in May that he would like to attend one of the New York Crusade meetings. Graham later wrote Nixon making the invitation official, and it was accepted.

The vice president will fly to New York from Washington late Saturday afternoon.

The Yankee Stadium rally is still regarded as the official closing date of Graham's New York Crusade, which began May 15, but the evangelist hinted very broadly today that the crusade may be extended beyond Saturday.

will produce better iron more efficiently for Pittsburgh Steel."

"Each time we close down a blast furnace for relining, we incorporate all the latest technological advances developed since the previous relining," Steele pointed out. "This time No. Two is really getting an up-to-date repair job."

Carbon Blocks

The furnace will have its 19.5 foot diameter hearth relined with carbon blocks instead of refractory bricks.

A new electrically controlled rotary distributor will be installed, as well as an automatic system that will give more uniform hot-blast temperature control.

Workmen will also replace some of the supporting columns which have held the furnace for these past 42 years.

No. Two will also get a fresh coat of paint.

A spokesman for Pittsburgh Steel said the shutdown will not affect plant production of steel and steel products.

Science Cures at Least One Strange Disease

NEW YORK (UP)—Medical science has succeeded, at last, in deliberately curing one case of an exceedingly strange disease. But the victory is rather embarrassing—because science isn't sure how it was done.

The disease is compulsive swearing which, scientifically, is "Gilles de la Tourette's disease." Some people who are forever making the atmosphere blue with their cussing, are not victims of this disease. They're victims, rather, of habit.

The real victims have absolutely no choice about it. A twitching of the facial muscles comes over twitch, too. When this happens, they spout obscenities—loudly and clearly.

Georges Gilles de la Tourette, distinguished French neurologist, (1857-1904) got his name attached to it because he was the first to describe it scientifically although not the first to observe it.

Cites Classic Case

The classic case was that of a woman who was seven when she fell victim to it, spent a life-time isolated from society because she couldn't control it, and still had it when she died at 85.

Most authorities consider it a prelude to frank insanity. And all authorities are gloomy about the future of the victims, considering it more or less incurable. That is why the deliberate cure of just one case is quite big news in medical science.

The cure was brought about by Dr. Richard P. Michael in a London hospital and reported in full detail to the British Medical Assn. The victim was 28 and the disease had been building up since childhood. When he came to treatment he was utterly unacceptable in business, in social life, even in the family circle.

The reason was that compulsive swearing overtook him 10 to 40 times an hour. He was free of it only while asleep. The most thorough physical examinations and all possible laboratory tests failed to reveal a physical cause. The man was given psycho - therapy, that is, an effort was made to doctor his mind. It was completely unsuccessful.

Uses Carbon Dioxide

So Dr. Michael set out to treat the physical tension which seemed to be behind the spasmodic twitching which accompanied the swearing. He did so by having the man inhale an atmosphere that was 70 per cent carbon dioxide, which is the sparkle and bubble of soda water.

This was repeated 30 times, over two months. Gradually the twitching — and swearing — diminished in frequency until it was no longer present. The man has been out of the hospital for 14 months, is a success in business, well-liked by friends and family, and is free of the disease.

Michael thought that, perhaps, the carbon - dioxide had changed chemical balances of the blood. Suppose, he said, that the twitching and "repetitive speech disturbance" was due to a "self-perpetuating process" of "muscular and vocal discharges." Then anything which interrupted the process—such as carbon dioxide — would also stop it.

Steel Production to Equal Record Years

NEW YORK (UP)—Steel production in the last half of 1957 will total around 56,500,000 tons, making output for the full year approximately equal to the record 117 million tons turned out in 1955. Iron Age predicted today.

"The worst is over for 1957," the authoritative trade magazine said.

Behind its optimism are expectations of: an upsurge in automotive demand; a reversal of the inventory-cutting spree; continued strong demand for plates structurals and oil country goods and a stronger export market.

Iron Age said last half operations probably will average 84.5 per cent of capacity, which would work out to approximately 54,500,000 ingot tons. In the first half of 1957, 60,500,000 tons were produced.

The magazine said it expects third quarter operations will average about 82 per cent of capacity, followed by a fourth quarter pick-up to an average of more than 85 per cent.

Iron Age said mills in several prducing centers already have begun to feel an improvement in automotive orders. It said the feeling is auto companies will make about 100,000 more cars in the third quarter than had been looked for earlier.

Meanwhile, Iron Age said appliance makers are entering the second half with low raw material inventories, including steel. Appliance people also have cut back production to the point where output is below sales levels.

Iron Age said the pick-up in new orders for sheet and strip will show up in August, although July also was better than had been expected.

It also noted that third quarter tonnages of heavy plates and structurals are on an allotment basis, with mills expecting capacity operations through the rest of the year.

Producers of oil country goods are booked to capacity for the third quarter "and there will be sizable carryovers into the fourth," it said.

Governor Signs Legal Ban on Wire Tapping

HARRISBURG (UP) — Legislation to place a legal ban on wire tapping was approved today by Gov. George M. Leader.

The measure prohibits the tapping of communication lines by anyone except telephone or telegraph companies without the permission of the parties involved.

The bill takes effect Aug. 16. It specifies evidence obtained from wire taps would not be admissible in court proceedings, and lists penalties up to a $5,000 fine and one year imprisonment. The person whose line is tapped without permission may file suit to recover treble damages.

The governor also signed bills to:

—Increase the minimum salaries for state teachers' college faculty members about $500 a year. The increments also would be increased on the average of $100 per year.

—Boost the salaries of members of the Public Utility Commission by $5,000 a year.

Small Business Man Hit by Tax Wave, Scott Says

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (UP) — Rep. Hugh Scott (R.-Pa.) charged Tuesday that the small business man is caught in a "constant squeeze of increased, new and multiplying state and municipal taxes."

Scott, former national chairman of the Republican Party, spoke before the 80th annual convention of the Pennsylvania Pharmaceutical Association.

He said that federal taxes have been cut by 7½ billion dollars by the Administration but that the "increasingly burdensome" new taxes imposed at the state and municipal levels have "certainly made all of us more tax conscious than ever before in our lives."

Scott charged that the percentage of increases in taxes on the state and municipal level "is not only high" but if continued would "very shortly wipe out any possible tax relief which may be anticipated in 1958."

He said that he had proposed in a bill that any budget surplus be applied annually, one half to the reduction of our national debt, and one half to tax relief.

'Drag Racers' Getting Wise

POTTSVILLE, Pa. (UP) — A group of youthful "drag racers" used radios in their "hot rods" to listen in on police calls and to keep just one step ahead of the law for a time, it was learned Tuesday.

State police at nearby Lykens Barracks said the youths had their cars equipped with radios to keep tabs on local police in surrounding communities. Sgt. Joseph Pocyhba said some even memorized the license numbers of certain squad cars.

Despite the precautions, 15 of the youths were arrested during the weekend in a state police campaign to stop "drag racing" on highways in this area.

GSA Borrowing Boost

HARRISBURG (UP) — Gov. George M. Leader today signed legislation to increase the borrowing power of the General State Authority by 50 million dollars to bring it to the 480 million dollar mark.

The measure marked a compromise between the 100 million dollar increase sought by Senate Republicans and the House Republican proposal for a 40 million dollar boost. It was the last major bill to clear the Legislature before final adjournment last month.

The legislation specifies the additional borrowing power would be used in three categories; $23,500,000 for completion of projects underway; $25,500,000 to undertake new projects determined by the board, and $1,000,000 for purchase of additional land for state teachers' colleges.

The governor also approved legislation to:

—Give married women equal property rights with men.

—Authorize county commissioners, township boards of commissioners and township boards of supervisors to erect additional roadside rests. The $8,000 ceiling for construction of the rests will be paid out of the county liquid fuels tax fund.

GOP Hits Back at Leader

Charge Is Reply to Criticism

HARRISBURG (UP)—A Republican leader has termed Gov. George M. Leader the "high priest and apostle of the fake political promise."

The charge was leveled by House Speaker W. Stuart Helm Tuesday night in a statewide television address in reply to the governor's recent criticism of the 1957 GOP - controlled Legislature as a "very bad...and unproductive and destructive session."

Helm, selected by the Republican Party to refute the governor's comments, said the "crowning achievement" of the session was the GOP policy of holding the line against imposition of any new taxes, while not cutting vital state services.

"We do not believe keeping our promise calls for an apology to Governor Leader who is infected with the virus of political waste and extravagance and can't understand that approval of his inflated budget automatically meant new and higher taxes," Helm said. "He has proven himself to be a political opportunist who hasn't the foggiest notion about state finances."

The Armstrong County legislator charged Leader broke many of his 1954 campaign promises, particularly a pledge of economy in government.

Charges Distortion

Helm said the governor's statewide television address of July 2 was marked by "tricks and innuendo, distortion and falsification" and was part of the chief executive's plan to advance his candidacy for the U.S. Senate next year.

He challenged point by point the governor's charges that the Republicans were influenced by lobbyists and that their budget slashes hurt programs for mental health, industrial development, slum clearance and other administration proposals.

"The truth is there was no bigger lobby in Harrisburg than the lobby Governor Leader gathered together and paid for out of your taxes to put over his inflated budget," Helm said. "Nor was there ever a state administration like Governor Leader's with its brazen contemptuous and unethical attempts to control legislation and thwart the will of the people."

Helm said the GOP held the line on taxes "in spite of all the pressure groups" and actually gave the Democratic state administration 400 million dollars more to spend than was given any previous Republican governor.

TRUNK MURDER — Elevator operator and former drama student Edward Polakowski 23, holds his hand up as camera protection during questioning in New York in which he admitted shooting to death James F. Malloy and packing the body in a trunk for shipment. Polakowski said he was "up to my neck in debt" to Malloy.

Local Attorney County Speaker

Daniel Myshin, Monessen attorney, spoke at the regular monthly meeting of the Westmoreland County unit of the state Federation of Fraternal and Social Organizations last Sunday in Derry.

Myshin, unit attorney, reported on the recent regional meeting held in Greensburg.

Joseph Cavalier, a member of the legislative committee, offered a detailed report on legislation enacted at the close of the General Assembly.

The next meeting of the Federation will be held at the Grapeville Vol. Fire Co. Club in Grapeville on Sept. 29.

Pope Reportedly Ill; Tooth Is Causing Trouble

VATICAN CITY (UP) — Pope Pius XII is suffering from a "slight indisposition" that will delay his Saturday departure for his summer villa at Castel Gandolfo, Vatican sources said today.

The sources said the Pope is suffering from a tooth infection which resulted in the swelling of his lips.

The sources emphasized the indisposition is slight and that it gives no cause for concern for the 81-year-old Pontiff. But they said the treatment may force him to postpone his trip for a few days

Earlier Vatican sources said the Pope had advanced the date of his departure for Castel Gandolfo by 10 days to beat the stifling Rome heat which has sent temperatures into the 90s and left more than 200 persons dead in a countrywide heat wave.

The Pope is expected to remain at his walled castle-like villa overlooking placid Lake Aubane in the Alban Hills, 15 miles southeast of Rome, until late in the fall.

A clarinet trio composed of Orlane Sacchini, Mandy McCormick and Kathy Penich played a selection and a mixed trio composed of John Swan, Michael Tetteris and Raymond Tirpak presented a special feature.

Child Electrocuted By Portable TV Set

CHICAGO (UP)—A group of electrical experts has decided that a portable television set was deadly enough to electrocute a 5-year-old boy who died when he touched it.

The electricians and television service experts were assembled by Cook County Coroner Walter J. McCarron in an investigation into the death Sunday of Howard Ehrenstein.

"In its present condition, this television set could kill," the experts told McCarron after a 90-minute study late Tuesday.

The engineers demonstrated that high voltage leaks from the unit's metal case were strong enough to light a 100-watt light bulb. The bulb was pressed into test use when a voltage meter was found to be defective

However, a spokesman for the General Electric Co. in Syracuse, N.Y., where the portable sets are produced said "under normal circumstances the set couldn't have caused such an accident." He said there was no reason to believe that other portable sets are dangerous.

The panel, headed by Prof. Eric T. Gross of the Illinois Institute of Technology, also discovered the set had been dropped after the youngster suffered the fatal shock at his suburban Skokie home. The group said it would be difficult to determine if the fall had anything to do with the set's present dangerous condition.

However, they agreed the set appeared to be defective. They said a minute laboratory examination of every part would be required to determine the cause of the high voltage electrical leaks.

McCarron said he would ask an impartial engineering group to undertake the detailed examination, and demand that at least 15 or 20 exactly similar sets by the same manufacturer be checked."

Howard fell dead in the kitchen of his family's home after brushing against the set, which was placed on an aluminum cart. The Ehrensteins left Monday for Pittsburgh, Pa., where services for Howard Jr. are to be held today.

The Ehrenstein family lived in the Ambridge, Pa., area until two years ago when it moved to Illinois.

Friedland's to Begin Remodeling Project Tomorrow

The interior of Friedland's Fashion Store will be completely remodeled, according to an announcement today by owner Joseph Friedland.

Actual work will begin tomorrow under contract to the Derby Construction Co., of Monessen, Friedland said.

The store will be open throughout the remodeling project.

The interior will be completely redone, with new fixtures, floor and decorations. Moreover, the store will be expanded to permit more selling space. This will enable Friedland to offer customers additional popular priced merchandise.

When completed, the store will follow the modern trend of self service. The lingerie department will be separated from the ready-to-wear, while new purse and sweater bars will be installed.

Friedland's first opened its doors at 551 Schoonmaker Ave. in 1912. In 1921, the store moved into larger quarters at 549 Schoonmaker Ave, but a fire soon destroyed the entire block.

From there the fashion shop moved to 439 Schoonmaker Ave, then later to 444 Schoonmaker.

In 1936, Friedland's occupied its present location at 515 Donner Ave.

Previously, the exterior of the store was remodeled and air conditioning installed.

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Nine-hundred salaried employes of Westinghouse Airbrake Co at nearby Wilmerding went on strike today in a wage dispute.

The strikers are members of the Westinghouse Airbrake Office and Technical Union, representing white collar office and technical personnel at the plant.

According to James H. Lowden, vice president of the union, the dispute dates back to last April when wage negotiations between union and management were started

On May 17, the union notified the National Labor Relations Board that a dispute existed between the management and the workers, Lowden said. The board set a 60-day cooling-off period during which time negotiations were continued.

The cooling-off period ended at midnight and the strike was called for 12 01 a.m, Lowden said.

He said that at the time of the latest negotiations, company offers and union demands were only "a few dollars apart."

Leader Vetoes Utility Poles

HARRISBURG, July 16. (UP)—Gov. George M. Leader today vetoed legislation which would have required the state to pay the cost of relocating public utility facilities for federal-aid highway projects.

The governor, in his veto message, charged the measure was a "brazen attempt to divert funds constitutionally earmarked for highway improvements to the use of privately - owned and profit-minded utility companies."

"It is my responsibility as governor to veto this special interest legislation," he said. "Understandably, the Republican leaders don't like this. Naturally, when necessary, I intend to keep right on using the veto in the public interest."

Reds Economy Goal Difficult

By COLETTE BLACKMOORE

MOSCOW (UP) —The resettlement of thousands of officials in new jobs. . .New responsibilities for men accustomed only to fulfilling orders from Moscow. . .

Whether to increase the power of individual factory managers. . . Whether to interfere from Moscow in the work of local economic councils. . .How to cut bureaucracy. . .

Soviet planners are finding it a Herculean task to decentralize the Soviet economy. They have, in fact, modified their original design in such a way that it may be difficult to achieve the primary goal of the reform approved by the Supreme Soviet in May.

Bigger Production Sought

The goal was to raise Soviet production by reducing the army of office workers and cutting red tape in Soviet industry. It now appears that the bureaucracy will still be large.

The reorganization program calls for establishment of "sovnarkhoz" — or economic councils —throughout the country to replace 25 central industrial and construction ministries, now abolished.

The sovnarkhoz will supervise the most important of the Soviet's 200,000 plants and factories.

The planners apparently thought in terms of 40 to 50 councils. Now the total stands at 105—double the initial estimate and four times as many councils as there were industrial and construction ministries.

Privacy of Mail Issue At Segregation Trial

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UP) — A federal judge presiding at the trial of 15 segregationists refused temporarily today to let a rural postman tell where John Kasper got his mail at Clinton, Tenn.

The defense charged that such testimony by the prosecution witness would "destroy the Post Office Department."

District Judge Robert L. Taylor ordered U.S. Attorney John Crawford to make Hobart Burris, the rural mailman, his last witness while further legal material is obtained on the subject.

"I don't believe this matter has ever been argued before me," said Taylor. "I would not want to make any ruling that would weaken the confidence of the public in the Post Office Department."

The question of privacy of the government mails thus became almost as big an issue in the Clinton contempt of court trial as the use of hitherto secret BI reports by the defense. The reports have been flowing freely to the defense since the first day of testimony last week under a recent supreme court decision.

The jury was excluded while the argument proceeded.

The government, nearing the end of its case, was attempting to show that 14 Clinton residents conspired with John Kasper, a publicized white supremacist, to violate Judge Taylor's order not to interfere with Clinton high school integration.

U. S. attorney John C. Crawford indicated he would call the last of his witnesses, including one who was expected to link another defendant to the beating of the Rev Paul Turner.

The Rev Mr. Turner, minister of Clinton's First Baptist Church, Tuesday identified defendant Clyde Cook as among the 18 or 20 persons he said attacked him after her escorted six Negro children to Clinton High School.

Turner's account of the beating was given following strenuous objection by defense attorneys, who claimed after Turner had delivered the children to school he was on his own and the federal integration order did not apply to action against him after that.

Compromise on Civil Rights Dangerous

IT IS WELL, we believe, that the advocates of the administration's civil rights bill have become wary of so-called compromises intended to make the bill somewhat more palatable to its Southern opponents.

As passed by the House, the measure would give the Attorney General the right to seek injunctions in the federal courts against persons who interfere with the civil rights of citizens. Violators of such injunctions would be subject to prosecution, without jury trial, for contempt of court.

The Southern senators are making a great pitch for trial by jury although contempt of court charges traditionally are tried without juries. But these senators know that in many areas of the South no white jury will convict a white man of anything, including murder, if a Negro is involved in the case. To put the enforcement of civil rights in the hands of such juries would be a mockery.

Another proposed compromise would limit the authority of the Attorney General to civil rights cases involving the right to vote. And what the compromisers have in mind here is that the government might acquire an additional instrument which could be used to hasten racial integration in the public schools of the South.

* * *

SENATORS who are trying to consider this question dispassionately and conscientiously need to keep two central facts in mind:

1. That the die-hard white elements in the deep South are opposed to civil rights for the Negro citizen — period. And they are just as opposed to his right to vote as to his right to send his children to a public school on an equal basis with the children of all other citizens. For these opponents of the administration's bill, compromises are just part of the strategy to prevent the civil rights of the Negro from being adequately protected.

2. That in this whole matter we are dealing with basic the principles of the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution, the foremost of these principles being: "All men are created equal". Any effort to compromise in this area is bound to be dangerous.

* * *

WE ARE NOT saying that the Senate should not make every effort to write sound civil rights legislation. It definitely should. And it is entirely possible that the bill passed by the House can be improved upon.

But as a nation we have tolerated much too long the deliberate, systematic watering down of the precious rights which were won at such awful cost in some of the most agonizing episodes in all history. For too long have we stood before the world — and in our own eyes as well — as a people who profess noble ideals in their charters of government but who allow these ideals to be ignored and trampled in the routine of daily living.

In other words, the time has just about come for America to put up or shut up and quit talking out of both sides of its mouth. And the next move is up to the U. S. Senate.

A Sound Move

THE DECISION of the city to eliminate curb parking on one side of Donner Ave. in Monessen's principal business district has been a long time coming. But it is so eminently necessary to relieve some of the traffic congestion in this area that the decision is certainly better late than never.

Only 38 parking places will be sacrificed by the move, and there is sufficient capacity in the new off-street facilities to absorb this parking without difficulty. And traffic should be able to move through the business district much more expeditiously.

We understand the long delay in reaching this decision was due to opposition, principally by a few merchants who can't yet realize that the streets are not maintained for their convenience and benefit. Streets exist primarily for the purpose of enabling vehicles to get from one place to another, and whatever use, including parking, interferes with that purpose has to give way.

No community can solve its traffic problems without first recognizing this principle. And a merchant is being foolish if he thinks that he can somehow benefit from traffic jams.

Who Wrote The Civil Rights Bill?

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON (UP)—It would be a fair question to ask Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr., who in his department drafted the administration's civil rights bill and, also, the names of any outsiders who helped on the job.

Mr. Wilson

With the authors identified, it would be reasonable to ask them about the legislative gobbledygook in Part III of the bill. Part III authorizes the use of the land and naval forces of the United States and the militia to enforce civil rights for Negroes in southern communities.

About all that is known of the authorship of the bill is that it was drafted in the Department of Justice or, at least, was made available to the House and the Senate by that department. Intentionally or not, the bill's authors chose a tricky and devious method of empowering the President to use troops in the South to enforce such rights as integrated schools.

Troops Provision Buried

It would be fair to ask the bill's authors whether they sought to bury out of sight the provision for the use of troops. Their method was roundabout but effective. Back there in Reconstruction days, roughly 1866 to 1871, Congress imposed some heavy-handed legislation on the South and backed it up with the armed forces of the United States.

One of those Reconstruction bills with a legislative history spanning from July 31, 1861, to April 20, 1871, is identified now in the United States Code as Act No. 1985. Part III of the civil rights bill pending now before the Senate actually is an amendment of that Reconstruction Act No. 1925.

This act, in turn, depends for its enforcement on still another Reconstruction force bill now identified as Act No. 1993, enacted first in 1866 and amended in 1871.

How About Voting?

It would be fair to question the authors about another interesting point. Why was this great enforcement power by land and sea forces provided for the miscellany of civil rights and not provided to enforce the greatest right of all—the right to vote?

The Senate by-passed its Judiciary Committee in bringing the civil rights bill to the floor. If the bill had been referred to that committee, Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.) probably would have sought the presence of the bill's authors as witnesses. And such questions as are suggested here undoubtedly would have been asked.. Russell doesn't like any part of the bill. He especially objects to what he regards as deceit and double talk in its presentation.

"The purpose of this bill," he told the Senate, "was to tie this whole proposition into a law authorizing the use of troops to integrate southern schools and not for the purpose of assuring the right of any citizen of this country to vote."

Another fair question to the authors and assistant authors would be: Was that the purpose?

WASHINGTON — Sen. Richard Neuberger, Democrat of Oregon, is all set to make an extremely important demand of Congress — namely, the removal of tobacco as one of the six basic crops entitled to government subsidy.

Mr. Pearson

Neuberger will make this demand on the ground that the Public Health Service has officially warned that cigarettes induce lung cancer.

"Why therefore, asks the Senator from Oregon "should the American taxpayers be subsidizing a crop that contributes to the most terrible disease known to man?"

"Eggs, oranges, apples, milk, and meat are not included in the basic crops," Neuberger has pointed out to close friends, "yet they are health-producing crops. Now that the Public Health Service, an official arm of the government, has spoken regarding cigarettes, I do not see why another arm of the same government should be spending money to spread disease."

Few people know it, but Neuberger is the man who prodded the Public Health service into taking a stand on cigarettes shortly after the British Ministry of Health got into action.

NOTE 1 — The six basic crops entitled to government price supports are wheat, rice, corn, peanuts, cotton, and tobacco.

NOTE 2 — Secretary of Agriculture Benson will probably welcome Neuberger's move. A devout Mormon, Benson does not believe in the use of tobacco in any form. However, it's Congress, not he who rules on which shall be the six basic crops.

Shoeless Congresswoman

Mrs. Merwin Coad, wife of the able young Congressman from Iowa, leads a relaxed life both in Iowa and the Maryland suburbs of Washington. Frequently, in hot weather, she works around the house and in the garden without shoes.

The other day she was driving to the grocery store in the family car when she realized she was driving in her bare feet. Mrs. Coad is the daughter of a minister. She is also the wife of a hard-working young Congressman whose career she doesn't want to handicap — even with bare feet.

So figuring that Maryland supermarkets required a certain amount of sophistication, she turned around, returned home and donned a pair of shoes. Then she headed back for the grocery store.

When she entered the supermarket, the first sight to meet her eyes was a pair of bare feet. Mrs. Coad looked up.

It was the wife of Congressman Jimmy Roosevelt, accompanied by the eldest son of the late President of the United States, Jimmy, however, wore shoes.

Behind the Girard Case

If Congress really wants to investigate the Girard case it should take a look at the part played by a certain energetic, opportunistic public relations man. If it hadn't been for him, there would have been no Girard case, no special summons of the Supreme Court in mid-summer, and no worsening of relations with Japan.

Significantly, other GI's have been in trouble with foreign courts at exactly the same time, but the public hasn't cared too much about them. Airman Marion Musilli is in jail in Athens Greece, for killing General Sarefis, and the American Embassy has ruled that he should be both tride in a Greek court and kept in a Greek jail. Army Specialist De Wayne McOsker is also in jail in France charged with killing an Algerian in a honky-tonk in an argument over paying for American cigarettes, which the GI was selling in the black market.

In neither case is the Supreme Court being summoned into special session, nor have the Secretaries of State and Defense been hailed before Congress, nor have their cases been discussed between the President and the Prime Minister, as in the case of Girard. For no public relations man seized upon their cases as pregnant with headlines.

The public relations man who pounced on the Girard case and represented him free is John David Griffin, son of an even better known public relations man, William Griffin, a leader of the Christian Front, whose activites during World War II caused him to be indicted for sedition.

Young Griffin saw the possibilities of the Girard case, phoned Girard's brother in Ottawa, Ill., and enlisted as attorney, Earl Carroll, also not averse to publicity, who has made a specialty both of defending GI's and raising Cain with military courts.

In defending Captain Jean de Angelis, sentenced to five years for gambling $79,837.67 of the U. S. Army's money on the racetracks in Rome, Carroll got unmercifully reprimanded by the court.

"His grossly insulting provocative language is unnecessary," the judge officially reprimanded Carroll. "We cannot ignore such deliberately contemptuous tirades, nor permit a course of conduct designed solely to delay and hinder . . . The obstructive and abusive actions of counsel flouted the authority of the law member and made a mockery of the requirement of decorous behavior."

In contrast, Girard, in Japan, retained a top Japanese lawyer, only to fire him next day on the demand of his brother. Girard also had the benefit of one of the best young U. S. Army lawyers stationed in Japan.

The shilly-shallying back and forth between Tokyo and Ottawa, Ill., did not help his case. The moves before the courts in the United States divulged evidence which might otherwise not have come out — namely, that he had enticed the Japanese woman onto the firing range.

No wonder, when it was all over and the Supreme Court ruled that he was to be tried in Japan, Girard publicly stated that this was a lucky break. He knew that if he were tried by an American court martial they would have thrown the book at him.

Today and Tomorrow—

Lippmann Sees Cold War More Intense

By WALTER LIPPMANN

The Soviet government very much wants the outer world to understand that Malenkov, Molotov and the others have been purged but are not being exterminated. As of now, we know definitely only about Malenkov, the chief offender, Khrushchev's most serious rival. He is being sent far enough away from Moscow to be in political exile, and there he is to live with the charge hanging over his head that he has committed capital crimes. It is a kind of parole before trial or conviction. This, as compared with Stalin's purges, is lenient treatment, and presumably Molotov and Kaganovich, who are too old to be dangerous, will get off at least as well.

Mr. Lippmann

All the evidence we have, which now includes Khrushchev's story, but not Malenkov's, supports the view that the object of the purge is to get rid of the main opposition to what might be called a more modernized Communism. The Soviet economy has grown too big and too complicated to be run without normal economic incentives and to be managed by a highly centralized oligarchy, relying principally upon the secret police. The Communist world, what with the growing strength of China and the increasing nationalism of the European satellites, can no longer be held together, as in Stalin's day, by imperial fiat from Moscow.

Khrushchev Practical

Khrushchev, who was a good Stalinist when Stalinism was the vogue, is not much of an ideologue. He is very much of a pragmatist. Insofar as he has turned against Stalinism, it is because, being a practical politician with an acute sense of the Russian realities, he knows that Stalinism will no longer work. The purpose of his reforms is to make the Communist system work, to consolidate the regime within Russia and to hold together the alliances with China and with the satellites.

There is in high places in Washington some wishful thinking which supposes that we are witnessing the beginning of the breakup of the Communist system. There is, it seems to me, no public evidence to support this notion, and even if, by some chance, it turned out that the Soviet problems at home and abroad are insoluble, it would still be a great mistake to make such an assumption now. We are least likely to mislead ourselves if we make the contrary assumption, which is that the Khrushchev reforms are likely to make stronger both the Russian state and the Russian system of alliances.

There are no indications that the internal problems are so severe that the Russian ruling class is becoming desperate and may become violent. Nor is there any indication that out of internal weakness the government will now make substantial concessions to the West about Germany, Korea, Formosa, the Middle East, or disarmament.

On the contrary, with Marshal Zhukov and the Army playing a larger role, we shall be dealing with a government which can be expected to be firmly opposed for military and national reasons to any strategic retreat. We must bear in mind that while it has been the Communists who have pushed forward the Russian sphere of influence to the lines of the Iron Curtain, those lines have been for more than a century the objective, or let us say the great dream, of Russian imperial strategy.

No Retreat Likely

We must suppose that there will be no substantial retreat, nothing, for example, which brings the whole of Germany within the sphere of NATO, or takes Poland outside the military system over which Marshal Zhukov presides. What about an advance? Is it likely that a modernized Communist regime will try to expand — to absorb West Germany, South Korea, Formosa, South Viet Nam, or to make a physical lodgment say in Syria or in Egypt?

There can be no certain answer to these crucial questions. We are dealing not in certainties but in probabilities. The most probably correct answer is, it seems to me, that Russia and China will try to expand by all means short of overt, organized, military action.

It is highly probable that with the balance of power in nuclear weapons as even as it is, any organized warfare which could involve Russia or the United States would be an incalculable risk for both of us. There is not likely, therefore, to be another limited war as in Korea. For even if the biggest weapons were not used, the weapons that would be used would not only be enormous by the old standards, but the tendency to raise the ante would probably be irresistible.

Without undue risk, we can assume that the deterrent strategy will prevent war above the level of propaganda, insurrection, subversion, infiltration, and intrigue. Considering the State Department's rather expert performance in Jordan and elsewhere in the Middle East during the past few months, there is no longer reason to think that in a cold war, we are hopelessly outclassed.

Things to Come—

Khrushchev's Speeches Are Being Censored

By CHARLES M. McCANN

United Press correspondents around the world look ahead at the news that will make the headlines.

Khrushy

It looks as if Soviet Communist chieftain Nikita S. Khrushchev is being censored. He's making a lot of free - swinging attacks on foreign personalities during his whistle-stop tour of Czechoslovakia. For instance, the one accusing President Eisenhower of "stupidity" in talking about a "clean" H-bomb. That one was broadcast by the Prague Radio. It wasn't published in Czech newspapers. A Czech official said the broadcast was a "mistake." Now Khrushchev's saltier off-the-cuff comments are being cleaned up before they are broadcast or published in the papers in summary form. It is reported that the reason Western correspondents were barred from the tour was because of fear that his cracks might cause trouble.

Mr. McCann

Draft

Don't be surprised if a retired general, admiral or foreign service officer is "drafted" to succeed John B. Hollister as foreign aid chief. Hollister resigned July 1 to re-enter private business. His job never has been a popular one. State Department officials say an appalling number of possible successors to Hollister have turned it down cold.

Underground

Insiders in Dublin expect the Sinn Fein Party to go underground with the outlawed Irish Republican Army as the result of Prime Minister Eamon De Valera's drive against terrorism. About 50 leaders of Sinn Fein, which is the political arm of the IRA, have been interned on De Valera's orders. The party can't announce who will take their places, so an underground headquarters is expected.

Speed-Up

Despite a security blackout, it can be disclosed that plans to construct 11 new North Atlantic Treaty Organization bases in Turkey have been speeded up as the result of the passage of Soviet Russian warships into the Mediterranean from the Black Sea. Work has been started hastily on several bases. Sites are secret. But it is reported that they've been chosen with an eye to Russia's Baku oil fields, close to the Turkish border and the naval base at Sebastopol across the Black Sea.

Air Safety

Look for the airs afety plan tested on Washington-New York-Chicago flights to be extended to other parts of the country soon. Planes flying above 9,500 feet in the triangle—the world's most congested flight territory—must operate under instrument flight rules and in federally-designated lanes to avoid collisions. Crews report a noticeable decline in the number of "near misses" in the triangle.

Signs of the Times

The magazine "Aviation Research and Development" is changing its name to "Missile Design and Development." The reason: "A survey showed that 88 per cent of its readers are now devoting themselves to missile research.

Sports Outlook

The end of the baseball season probably will bring at least two changes in the major league managerial ranks. Shakiest managers are Lou Boudreau of Kansas City and Fred Haney of the Milwaukee Braves. Others are Bob Scheffing of the Chicago Cubs, Bobby Bragan of the Pittsburgh Pirates and Bill Rigney of the New York Giants. Best bets to fill any vacancies are Clyde King, Hollywood manager; Charlie Dressen, Washington trouble - shooter; Denver Manager Ralph Houk, Cleveland Coach Eddie Stanky and Marty Marion, currently out of baseball.

City Tennis Tourney Registration

Attention! Local netters! Registrations begin today for the City Tennis Tourney, co-sponsored by American Legion Post 28 and the Department of Recreation here. Competition will begin on July 29 with the tourney divided into eight classifications, starting with the Junior Division for 16 year-olds and under. Post 28 will award trophies in all eight classes . . . Another reminder — boys and girls between the ages of 9 and 15 who want to make that Knot Hole Club trip Thursday when the Pirates battle the Cubs had better get their consent forms from playground instructors here. Cost? $1 for transportation. Game admission is free.

Usually matters like the one involving the two Charleroi coaches and their fisticuffs last week are best left ignored after the initial report, but it appears that will not be the case at Charleroi. Despite a statement by school board president T. H. Breuer that there would be no investigation, a report from Charleroi yesterday has it that one of the school directors feels it should be investigated because "it's a public issue and involves the taxpayers." . . . Trinity high school goes in for wrestling in a big way apparently, the financial report for last season shows a loss of $1229.50 (wow!) on the grappling sport.

Belle Vernon Lions Resume Trek

The Belle Vernon Lions Club will travel to Cleveland by train Sunday to watch the Indians in a twin-bill against the Yankees, an annual custom which was bypassed last season but resumed this year by popular demand. Sixty reservations have been made for the trip . . . Donora and Monongahela selections dominate the Mon Valley Section All-Star team named to play in the American Legion classic at Donora, July 30. Each year the game is watched by at least 25 major league scouts. Among the Donorans selected were two promising grid stars, Angie Dabiero and Davy Russell. Monongahela's main choice is Eddie Kikla with Rich Sacane, George Peters and George Fabin also named. Billy McCall, ex-Wildcat athlete, now a first stringer at Elizabeth-Forward High was another MV choice.

Tom Tannas, of Arnold, former partner of the late Jake Mintz, is trying desperately to get his heavyweight protege Garven Sawyer, on the card for the Floyd Patterson-Hurricane Jackson bout on July 29 . . . Reliable reports say that a couple of the Bellmar basketball coaching post applicants are from out of state and getting a little perturbed over having to drive back to Belle Vernon so many times for interviews. All this will end next week, according to Joint Board President Blandon Bulger. He says a new coach will definitely be named then . . . . Division 8 Kiwanis had its annual outing yesterday at Pleasant Valley Country Club, near Connellsville. Al DeLuca, popular St. Vincent College grid coach, delivered the principal address at a dinner following a day of golfing, swimming, horse-shoes and badminton.

Charleroi Recreation Center

Charleroi is apparently planning in earnest for a Recreation Center near the parking lot there. A group of Charlerians traveled to Wierton, W. Va., to see that community's Center last week and came away highly impressed. Describing the modern gymnasium-auditorium, Johnny Bunardzya, Charleroi scribe states that "the gym measures 110 by 94 feet, an added area 86 feet by 52 feet with retractable seats to accomodate 1200 persons and room for 1200 more spectators on the floor in movable chairs" for theatrical productions, etc. . . . Guess which major league team won a pennant by the largest margin? Do you know the year? And the manager? We do but we're going to keep you guessing until tomorrow.

Sawyer Picks Surprise Baseball Dream Team

By OSCAR FRALEY

DAYTON, Ohio (UP) — Eddie Sawyer, who led the last band of Philadelphia "Whiz Kids" to the National League pennant in 1950, cast a jaundiced eye at the acknowledged super - stars of baseball today and named a dream team which is loaded with surprises.

You can have your "name" stars such as Ted Williams, Hank Aaron and Yogi Berra. Sawyer, one of baseball'ss martest strategists as he led the Phillies to their first flag in 33 years puts the premium on team work as well as talent.

He even takes Willie Mays of

He evenn takes Willie Mays of the Giants over Mickey Mantle of the Yankees as a centerfielnder, calling the "say hey" kid "by far the best centerfielder in baseball."

The Dream Team

Sawyer's all - star team—"the one I'd like to manage above all others I can think of today"—includes:

"And to manage that team, I'll take Walter Alston," Sawyer asserted. "He does the job the way it should be done."

"I still don't like left field this way, even though I have to give it to Mantle in a tossup over Aaron," says Sawyer, who now is vice president in charge of sales promotion for the Plymouth Golf Ball Co, exclusive manufacturers of the official PGA ball and Eddie's reason for being in Dayton where the PGA tournament opened today.

Explains His Choices

Taking his selections one by one, Sawyer explained them this way:

"Smith is the best catcher around, in my opinion, and along with Musial is one of the main reasons which makes the Cardinals click. As for Musial, he's the best player I ever saw."

Sawyer describes Temple as "an Eddie Stanky with ability," and the best second baseman of the past 15 years.

Local PONY All-Star Squad Named

Bronson Stars in MPSA Win

Willie Bronson hurled and batted MPSA to a 12-9 decision over Italian Hall in local City Softball League action last night.

Four runs in the sixth turned the tide for the winners when they plated markers on three hits, a base on balls and an error.

Bronson pitched seven-hit ball and contributed a triple and single to his own cause.

Johnson

Even with such a fine performance as that he had to take a back seat to Ray Johnson of Italian Hall who hit two homers and drove in eight runs in a futile attempt to put his mates ahead.

Herb Mills and Jim Mormon assisted Bronson in the hitting department for MPSA getting two hits each, one of Mills' going for a homer.

Fourth

The victory solidified MPSA's hold on fourth place, now showing a 6-5 record to Italian Hall's (sixth place) 5-7.

Action continues tonight with the Ravens meeting the first place Cro-Ams.

Dale Long Satisfied With Singles Now

By NORM BRAUN

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Dale Long, the likeable Chicago Cub first baseman who electrified the sports world last year by slamming home runs in eight straight games, said today he's now content to "settle for singles."

"I'm not trying to hit the ball out of the park every time I come to the plate "h e said. "I just try to meet the ball good. If it goes for a homer—why that's all right with me. But I'm not particularly trying for homers."

Long, a .350 plus hitter for Pittsburgh in the early part of last season, can detect no difference in his batting style this year.

"I was getting all kinds of wood on the ball last year," he said. "As far as I can determine, I'm still swinging the same this year—but the results are not the same.

Long, who has 11 homers and is batting around .260 this season, disagreed with the theory the pitchers finally have discovered his batting "weakness."

"I don't go along with that," Dale declared. "I've been in the National League four years now and they're pitching the same to me as when I first started. If I have a bad weakness at the plate, I wouldn't be in the majors."

Long said he likes the friendly confines of Wrigley Field over the vast Forbes Field playing area.

"The Wrigley Field fences are closer in center and left. A drive to dead center in Chicago often will go for extra bases. At Forbes Field, it's just a long out."

The North Adams, Mass., native said the absence of night games at Wrigley Field also helps a hitter.

"It's easier for me to hit in daylight than under the lights," he said. "Most players would rather play daytime ball because they can get settled in a certain routine without switching from day to night work."

Pirate Rally Tops Braves in Minors

Although getting only three hits the Pirates made them count for 10 runs in a 10-8 decision over the Braves in local Minor League play yesterday at the Stadium Annex.

The big blow of the game for the winners was David Lloyd's triple with the bases loaded in the sixth when the Pirates rallied from a 6-1 deficit to tally nine times and win the game.

Danny Cosner of the losers had a double for the only other extra blow of the game.

Action continues today with the Yanks battling the White Sox.

Con Lupori, who starred for Bellmar High School's baseballers last season, made a suspicious debut for the Charleroi Merchanis in the Mon Valley League last night as he hurled a five-hitter at West Newton, for a 15-1 victory.

Although receiving help from Stan Milchovich, who went in the seventh, the aid was not needed. It was only a precaution against overworking the youth in his first start.

The Cougar big guns warmed up for the important clash with Fayette City at Fayette City tonight as they blasted out 15 hits. Billy Majeski put on quite a show as he connected for three for three, including a 375 foot triple and stole seven bases.

Carmen Cappelli, Nick Mahalko, Walt Cieply and George Zuraw all collected two safe blows. Cappelli also clubbing a 375-foot three-bagger.

DOCTORING YOUR GOLF

By CARY MIDDLECOFF

Shoulder Turn

To hit a golf ball with power and accuracy, the left arm must be kept generally straight throughout the backswing until the ball is hit.

As the backswing nears the top, it is hardest to keep your left arm straight. Most players bend their left arms here because they don't turn the shoulders enough. Give the shoulders a full turn and keeping the left arm straight is no great problem.

I have met many players who THINK they're taking a full turn with the shoulders — but they aren't. Here's how to tell: If you are taking a full and proper shoulder turn, your back will be facing toward the hole. Also, the left shoulders will be brushing against your chin.

Don't worry about taking too full a shoulder turn. Remember, the bigger the shoulder turn, the better.

Homers in First; Three RBI's in 2nd

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Frank Thomas powered the Pirates to a double sweep over Chicago Tuesday night and helped the Bucs tighten their grip on seven place.

In the first contest — the completion of a game suspended last June 16, with the score 4-4 in the seventh—Thomas homered to give the Bucs a 5-4 victory. In the regular game, Frankie had a two-run double and a run-scoring single to lead Pittsburgh to a 5-3 victory.

The double defeat dropped Chicago 1½ games behind the Pirates.

Chicago righthander Bob Bush reached the seventh inning of the regular game with a 2-0 lead. He had allowed only one hit—a double in the first inning—and had retired the last 15 men to face him.

But Bob Skinner opened the frame with a single to left and moved to third on Dick Groat's double to right center. Both scored on Thomas' double, and Thomas came home on a triple by Gene Baker.

The Pirates sent Rush to the showers in the eighth with two more runs on singles by Dee Fondy, Groat, Bill Virdon and Thomas.

Bob Friend was credited with the win in the regular contest, while Vernon Law was given the decision in the suspended game.

Tonight, the Bucs face the Cubs again at Forbes Field with Ron Kline (2-12) against Moe Drabowsky (4-8).

Top Golfers Start PGA Tourney Play

DAYTON, Ohio (UP)—The nation's top professional golfers teed off in the first round of match play in the PGA golf championship today, and the best bet in the field was that a new champion would be crowned around sundown Sunday.

Defending titleholder Jackie Burke, suffering from a right wrist injury which forced him to withdraw after two rounds in the National Open at Toledo last month, appeared to have little chance of winning it again.

"I just can't hit the ball," Burke explained. "But I'm going to give it a try."

His fellow pros who know him best said that Burke was playing only because he thought it was the thing for a defending champion to do.

Ford Rated Favorite

However, even if he was at the top of his game, Burke would only be rated second to rugged Doug Ford, who won the title in 1955 and who is the leading money winner on the 1957 tournament trail with earnings of $37,946.

Ford, noted as a match player, was a 5-1 choice in the field of 128 teeing off for the first round play. There will be two 18-hole sudden death matches on Thursday and Friday, cutting down the field to four for the 36-hole semi-finals on Saturday. Those winners will meet in the 36-hole title round on Sunday.

The hilly, 6,773 - yard Miami Valley Golf Club, with a par of 36-35, should be just what the golfing doctors would order for Ford for it requires a long, accurate driver with a good putting touch, and Ford ranks on top in both of those categories.

But he is facing tough competition in such stars as Walter Burkemo, who many golfers rate as the best match player of them all, and long - hitting Mike Souchak, who won the PGA driving championship Tuesday with a three-ball average of 243 yards.

Snead Ranks High

Also ranked high among the possibilities was Slammin' Sammy Snead, gunning for his fourth PGA championship. There are a lot of golfing followers who are convinced that Snead can take it all if his putter works for him. His course-equalling record of 65 in a practice round added to his lustre.

Nine former PGA winners and three U. S. Open champions are in the field. In addition to Burke, Ford, Burkemo and Snead, other winners are Vic Ghezzi, Chandler Harper, Denny Shute, Chick Harbert, and Jim Turnesa. The Open kings are Dick Mayer, the current champion; Ed Furgol and Jack Fleck.

Mayer down - graded his own at Toledo last month," Mayer explained. "I've been kept pretty busy so it figures that I'm on the rusty side."

Two young pros in the field, because the PGA cut down its five-year qualifying limit, also rated high—Don Finsterwald and Gene Littler. Under the old regulations, neither would have been eligible to compete. But because of declining gates, the PGA voted to let in promising newcomers so Finsterwald and Littler are getting a shot at the title.

The first twosome in the field was scheduled to tee off at 9 a.m. pairing Brian Charter of Janesville, Wis., against Rut Coffey of Moundsville, W. Va.

Ford, the Masters champion, meets Denny Champagne of Orlando, Fla., while Burke takes on host pro Gene Marchi. Burkemo drew Toby Lyons of Jamestown, N.Y.

Hoad-Segura Match Today

NEW YORK (UP)—Lew Hoad, the Wimbledon champion who got $125,000 to turn professional, tries his powerful game against Pancho Segura, the pigeon - toed South American with the two - handed forehand, today in the fourth round of the $10,000 Tournament of Champions at Forest Hills.

Hoad, who beat fellow Aussie Frank Sedgman in his pro debut last Sunday, needs a victory today to insure meeting Pancho Gonzales, the worlds best tennis player, in the singles windup on Sunday.

Gonzales scored his second win in as many starts in the current tourney by beating Rosewall, 6-2, 8-6, 6-4, Tuesday while Hoad was limiting his play to a doubles match. Gonzales plays in doubles today.

Segura notched a mild upset when he beat Tony Trabert of Los Angeles, 6-4, 7-5, 9-11, 4-6, 7-5, in the other singles test. Sedgman plays Trabert in today's other singles match.

Giardello Out To Kayo Vejar

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UP)—Middleweight contender Joey Giardello, who observed his 27th birthday Tuesday, hopes to celebrate the occasion tonight by knocking out Chico Vejar in their scheduled 10-round bout at the Eposition Center.

"I'd like nothing better than a knockout victory over Chico," said the Brooklyn battler, who was a 4-1 favorite for the nationally-televised bout.

Giardello, unbeaten in his last 10 fights, is rated third among the 160-pound contenders. Vejar, 25, of Stamford, Conn., is unranked although he formerly was a top-rated challenger in the welterweight division.

Giardello, a one-time resident of Philadelphia, has won 70 of his 89 pro fights, 27 via knockouts Vejar's 73-10-2 pro record includes 34 knockouts.

Donora Decisions Van Voorhis, 6-1

Donora topped Van Voorhis, 6-1, in a Mon Valley League game played at Van Voorhis last night but details were lacking.

Ken Baibao, former Donora High ace and Pittsburgh Pirate farmhand hurled for the winners, who were paced by Ron Quinto, his double being the big blow of the game.

Manager John Barkey pitched for the losers.

The victory put Harry Sickels' Donora nine closer to the fourth-place playoff slot.

Dodgers Beginning to Make Move in National Flag Race

By MILTON RICHMAN

The Brooklyn Dodgers are sticking pins in the World Series balloons of all the countenders today and threatening to take over the National League pennant party themselves.

Walt Alston's crew has been busy killing off the contenders since the All-Star break. The Dodgers resumed play by defeating Cincinnati twice, then they swept a two - game series with Milwaukee.

And Tuesday night they toppled the high-riding Cardinals 7-5, for their fifth victory in a row as they climbed within a game of the lead.

Duke Snider has been the Dodgers' chief hatchetman with four home runs in the last five games. He blasted his 20th of the season with one on in the fifth off Lindy McDaniel to highlight a four-run rally that helped reliever Carl Erskine to his third victory. Gil Hodges also homered for Brooklyn.

NL Race Tightens

The Brooklyn triumph tightened the National League race so that only one game separated the first four clubs. Milwaukee defeated first - place Philadelphia, 6-2, and the Giants beat the Redlegs, 6-1. Pittsburgh topped Chicago, 5-4, in the completion of a game suspended June 16, then beat the Cubs, 5-3, in a regularly scheduled contest.

The Yankees increased their American League lead to four games with a 10-4 triumph over the Tigers in 10 innings; Baltimore licked the White Sox, 3-1; Boston edged Kansas City, 4-3, and Cleveland defeated Washington, 9-3.

Home runs by Hank Aaron and Del Crandall helped Warren Spahn gain his 10th victory at the expense of the Phillies although the veteran southpaw also needed a brilliant ninth - inning catch by right fielder Andy Pafko with the bases full. Harvey Haddix was the loser.

Ruben Gomez of the Giants set down the Redlegs on six hits as Daryl Spencer hit a pair of homers for New York and Eddie Bressoud added another. Hal Jeffcoat started for the Redlegs and gave up eight of the Giants' 13 hits. Willie Mays collected four of them.

Frank Thomas fattened up on Chicago's pitcing in both Pirate victories. Thomas' 13th homer of the year in the seventh inning won the suspended game which was resumed with the score tied 4-4 in the seventh. Then, in the regular game, Thomas doubled home two runs in a three - run seventh and added a single in a two - run eighth as Bob Friend went the distance for his seventh victory.

Byrne Homers Again

Tommy Byrne's three-run homer featured a six-run rally in the 10th that gave the Yanks their triumph after the Tigers had rallied to tie the score at 4-4 in the ninth. Byrne, who won a game for the Yankees with a home run against the White Sox Sunday, entered te game in the ninth and was credited with his fourth victory. Paul Foytack was the loser.

A two - run homer by Billy Goodman in the eighth inning napped Baltimore's four - game losing streak and sent Jim Wilson of the White Sox down to his seventh setback. Goodman's wallop, off reliever Dixie Howell, came immediately after the resumption of play following a 26-minute delay caused by rain. Ray Moore was the winner.

Jackie Jensen and Ted Williams teamed up in Boston's victory over Kansas City. Williams hit his 26th homer in the ninth off loser Virgil Trucks and after Mickey Vernon walked Jensen homered to put the Red Sox ahead, 4-2. Woody Held hit a pair of homers for the Athletics.

Vic Wertz slammed his 12th homer and drove in three runs as Early Wynn led the Indians to their fifth straight victory with an eight-hit effort. Wynn, who posted his eighth triumph, was touched for a home run by Lew Berberet Ted Abernethy suffered his ninth loss after being knocked out in the fourth inning.

Racial Charge By Tebbetts

NEW YORK (UP)—Birdie Tebbitts, fiery manager of the Cincinnati Redlegs, today charged that "the only reason" National League pitchers are throwing at his No. 1 slugger, Frank Robinson, "is because he is a Negro."

Robinson suffered a concussion Tuesday night when struck by a pitch thrown by Ruben Gomez of the New York Giants in the eighth inning of a game at the Polo Grounds.

"I hate to say this," Tebbetts said after learning that Robinson would be out of action for several days, "but I'm the boss of our club and if I don't fight for my guys who will? The pitchers are throwing at Robinson because he is a Negro."

The Redlegs' manager did not specifically charge Gomez with throwing a bean ball at Robinson, who was hit by pitchers 19 times last season and has been nicked several other times this year.

The Redleg outfielder wore a helmet but the force of Gomez' pitch split the protective device, the ball bouncing more than 25 feet to the fringe of the Giants' dugout.

After being examined by Giant physician Anthony Palermo, Robinson was removed to Harkness Pavillion for examination.

Herb Score Given Okay

CLEVELAND (UP)—Eager Herb Score, who hasn't touched a baseball in more than two months, finally got the green light to begin working out with Cleveland Thursday and the young fast - baller says he'll be out there with bells on.

Dr. Charles Thomas, the eye specialist who has been threating Score since he was felled by a batted ball May 7, told the 24-year-old left-hander he can start throwing Thursday.

But Thomas pointed out Score will not be able to return to the mound for another month or six weeks.

Warn Against Sunday Sales

HARRISBURG (UP) — State Banking Secretary Robert L. Myers Jr. warned today he will revoke the licenses of installment sellers of automobiles convicted of selling motor vehicles on Sunday.

Gov. George M. Leader signed legislation last week increasing the penalty for Sunday automobile sales to $100 for a first offense and $200 and up to 30 days imprisonment for a second conviction. The law had been on the books for several years with lesser penalties but never endorsed.

The Banking Department has licensing authority over persons who sell, hire or lease vehicles under installment sales contracts.

People in Chicago Area Are Contracting 'Seaway Fever'

(The third of five dispatches by a UP correspondent who has toured the route of the St. Lawrence Seaway to the western end of the Great Lakes.)

CHICAGO (UP) — Ride down the rust-colored waters of the Calumet River south of Chicago, dodging 600-foot ore boats beneath pink and apricot plumes curling from the blast furnaces of the biggest concentration of heavy industry on earth.

Sit in the office of a University of Chicago professor and hear a food processor in the old home of isolationism ask, "what is the water temperature in Bangkok?"

Gaze in department store windows in the Great Lakes cities and see the big push on imported wares.

Study the sketches of 16-knot ships, listen to plans for "world port" and "world trade" fairs, look at the blueprints of big new piers. Hear an industrialist, once content to sell in Cincinnati, plot a campaign for Casablanca.

The lakes have "seaway fever." In the atomic age, they have discovered the power of water.

The outsider forgets that there has long been a tremendous flow of all-American, all-Canadian and Canadian - American commerce along the St. Lawrence River and the Great Lakes. Duluths iron port ranks second only to New York in total tonnage. Some years the Detroit River and the Soo Canal are the busiest waterways in the world.

Widen Rivers

The new seaway along the St. Lawrence and deepened channels around the lakes will give a new push to this thriving traffic.

The U.S. government is spending 136 million dollars to widen and deepen to 27 feet the Detroit River, St. Clair River and Lake St. Clair to enable bigger ships to pass from Lake Erie into Lake Huron; the Straits of Mackinac, to open Lake Michigan, and the St. Mary's River, to start a new era for Lake Superior.

In addition, the Army Corps of Engineers is surveying the requests of 21 lake cities for $1,300,000,000 to deepen local harbors. Congress will grant federal funds to some — but not always in the amount requested.

While all ports are scrambling for recognition, they all admit that Chicago will be number one on the lakes. It is already the hub of American railroad, highway and commercial aviation transport, the metropolis for a million square miles, with 60 million people and more food products within 500 miles than any city in the world. Its trading hinterland can reach to Pike's Peak and down into the Appalachians. It provides an entrance off the lakes into the Mississippi River, a junction of waterways which makes it a 'natural.'

Improve Port Facilities

Chicago has already spent 24 million dollars around Lake Calumet to build the best port facilities on the lakes. They are not the most accessible — the downtown skyline of Michigan Avenue is out of sight, ships must duck 12 drawbridges on a six-mile journey upstream. But the route is lined with steel mills whose output tops Britain and at the other end lie three massive new warehouses, two new grain elevators with a total capacity of 13 million bushels and 2,200 acres awaiting a 150 million dollar development program.

Experts believe that Buffalo, Cleveland, Detroit, Milwaukee, Toledo and Toronto Ont. (for safety's sake, they are listed alphabetically) will follow Chicago as top-ranking ports. Duluth will continue to handle tremendous iron tonnages as long as the Mesabi deposits last and may get more grain shipments. Hamilton, Ont., is developing rapidly and the Ohio iron ports can hardly fail to receive more ore. Buffalo expects to lose some of the glory it had as a transshipment point to the East Coast. According to the experts, Rochester and Oswego, N.Y., need industry.

With a wave of a cigar and a note of optimism characteristic of his fellows, Detroit Port Director Carlos Stettin says "Detroit is going to be a helluva seaport. We've got the people, the industry, the markets and the products. We've got deep water (29 to 51 feet) and a natural harbor — no obstructions. It's like coming up the street and parking at the curb."

New Ports Planned

Detroit has a 70 million dollar development on the dreaming boards but is cautiously voting in the first stage on only 3 million dollars. Cleveland, with an 8 million dollar program, has built a new municipal pier and plans another. Milwaukee has an 11 million dollar project in the works, and a municipal port to which its rivals bow in respect. Toledo speaks of 20 million dollars.

But before they spend too much money too rapidly, the ports must see what the Seaway can do.

Last year 13 million tons floated up and down the St. Lawrence on 1,000 ships. Canadian and American experts expect this to rise to 30-35 million tons — almost triple—in 1959.

It should go to 50 million tons and beyond within 10 years—but not the 80 million once forecast.

The experts say that about 70 per cent of this traffic will be internal Canadian trade and that most of it will be grain, iron, coal and pulp. They predict only about 6,400,000 tons of general package cargo which is loaded rather than poured aboard a ship.

That doesn't leave much room for "all that foreign cargo" of which Midwesterners have spoken.

Yet the lake ports can cite impressive statistics to predict what Milwaukee's aggressive Port Director Harry Brockel calls a "brilliant future."

Handle More Tonnage

Jumping from almost zero in 1946, the lake ports last year handled about 800,000 tons of foreign trade — 40 per cent of it via Chicago. Detroit's tonnage may be pitiful compared to New York but it jumped almost 50 per cent in one year. Milwaukee has already shipped overseas such items as church pews, fountain pens and wax from Wisconsin and hides from Kansas. Its foreign cargoes have leaped 80 times above 1946.

Where once there were two shipping lines, today there are 26 operating on the lakes in overseas traffic. European shippers are eager about the future.

In the past, goods bound abroad had to move to East Coast ports by rail for loading aboard ships. Soon these products can move directly by ships. Studies show that:

The trip by sea from Chicago to Europe, about 29 days, will be as fast as the rail-water route.

Many manufacturers can save from $10 to $40 a ton by using the water route. The savings on agricultural machinery may be 43 per cent.

Break in Heat Wave Predicted

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Weather Bureau predicts a break in the heat wave is due for a good portion of the United States during the next 30 days.

But it warned that in the central portion of the country — from the Rockies to the Appalachians—it's liable to get even hotter.

Military Cut Hailed

By FRANK ELEAZER

WASHINGTON (UP) — House budget - cutters today hailed Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson's 100,000 - man military cutback as proof of their claim the defense budget can be reduced substantially. Senators were cautious.

Some military officials feared the reduction would weaken U.S. bargaining power in disarmament dickering with Russia.

The United States has proposed a cutback in U.S., Russian and British military strength to 2,500,000 men. Some military men fear if this country cuts too close to that goal voluntarily it will lose any leverage on Russia to do likewise.

Wilson, with President Eisenhower's approval, Tuesday ordered the armed forces to reduce their authorized strength from 2,800,000 to 2,700,000 by the end of this year. Since the services were 10,358 below authorized strength at last report, this means an actual cut of 89,642 men.

The Army would take half the cut, winding up with a force of fewer than one million men for the first time since the Korean buildup. Wilson indicated further cuts will be considered late next fall. He said the move will not materially affect overseas deployment including forces in Western Europe.

In a memorandum to Eisenhower, Wilson said the cuts make it possible to reduce by about 200 million dollars the money requested from Congress for personnel, maintenance and operations for the 12 months that began July 1.

SHADY LANES AT KENNYWOOD — Cool breezes through shady lanes add considerably to the attractive setting of Kennywood Park, site of the annual Monessen community picnic Tuesday July 30. Kennywood, one of the nation's largest and most beautiful amusement centers, has 14 acres for picnicking pleasure and fun.

Kennywood Has Many More Exciting Rides

Kennywood Park will have more than ever to offer when the Monessen Community Picnic is held at the big amusement center on Tuesday, July 30.

Already a fun seekers' haven with every imaginable kind of amusement device from four roller coasters on down to the nation's largest merry-go-round, Kennywood has added a unique new ride this season.

It is "The Round-UP", one of the most spine-tingling rides ever invented.

The Round-Up is a cylindrical device that accommodates the riders in niches around its perimeter. They stand throughout the ride which begins as the cylinder starts rotating while level.

Then the whole ride tilts almost upright and continues to spin. The spectators who watch from the sidelines get almost as much a sensation as the riders themselves, who leave the Round-Up limp with excitement.

Kennywood, which continues to improve its beauty as an amusement paradise each season, also is a forerunner in modernistic park architecture. The modernistic trend has been continued this year with a new novelty store and new refreshment center.

The Old Mill has been improved with scenes inside depicting a "Trip Around the World" — mechanized and life-size characters portraying interesting sights from many foreign lands. The Zoomerang, another popular "dark" ride, also has new and exciting novelties inside its dark caverns.

Possibly the most unique addition in the park is a television camera in the Enchanted Forest, which allows everyone a chance to "become a TV star." The picture from inside is transmitted to a screen outside the building where the public view the "actors."

Public Assistance Changes Needed, Deputy Claims

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (UP) — Pennsylvania's deputy secretary of the Department of Public Assistance said Monday that the state's entire public assistance program should be "refocused" to face changing times and conditions.

Robert P. Wray, addressing the 80th annual convention of the Pennsylvania Pharmaceutical Association said that in the middle 1930's persons receiving assistance were classed as being on "relief."

Today, Wray said, only about 20 per cent receiving assistance are unemployed. He added that the bulk of assistance goes to people unable to work, the aged, the chronically ill, and the blind.

He said the viewpoint of public assistance must be changed since the typical person needing assistance today is ill and the problem of meeting that person's needs is different than it was 20 years ago.

Leader Vetoes Move to Halt Police Discipline

HARRISBURG (UP)—Legislation to prohibit the suspension of Pittsburgh policemen for periods up to 10 days without allowing them appeals was vetoed today by Gov. George M. Leader.

The governor said the measure would have removed a procedure used to maintain discipline and enforcement of rules. He pointed out that policemen already were protected against discriminatory and unwarranted dismissals.

The bill would have prevented police officials from suspending their men for periods under 10 days without first giving the suspended member an opportunity to appeal. Leader said the legislation would deprive the police administrator of much of his authority since it would involve the loss of so much time in the hearing and disposition of appeals.

Leader added it also was important to have authority to suspend when charges of corruption and misbehavior were made against policemen.

Drizzle to Fizzle

MADISON, Wis. (UP) — Rain did what burglars have never done—set off the alarm on the Wisconsin Treasury vault. Miss Helene Blied of the treasurer's office said police who rushed to the vault Saturday found wires going to the alarm were wet and short circuited.

Chamber Officials in Coin Album Warning

An official of the Monessen Chamber of Commerce today warned against "misleading" advertisement used in connection with the sale of Lincoln penny coin albums.

Joseph C. Friendland, chairman of the Business Affairs committee of the Chamber, reported that the coin albums are being advertised under a "buy-back" lure which doesn't tell the entire story.

Citing a bulletin from the National Better Business Bureau, Friendland pointed out that the reader's interest in the coin album is usually atracted by such headings as "We pay $16 for only 59 Lincoln pennies."

Readers are told to send $1 for a Lincoln coin album "to hold your pennies," according to the Chamber executive.

Purchasers are instructed to "fill the spaces with the dates shown in the album, return complete albums and receive $16 by return air mail plus $1 back for the album."

Nowhere in this advertising, Friedland stated, is the reader informed that the coins necessary to complete the album must bear specified mint marks or, in some cases, the initials of the engraver.

In order to complete the album, certain rare coins would be required. This information is omitted from the advertisements.

Friedland noted that according to the National Better Business Bureau such advertising is not in the public interest. It would appear to be a "gimmick" employed to sell albums to the public.

Another Sheppard 'Confessor'

DELAND, Fla. (UP)—Mystery writer Erle Stanley Gardner's "court of last resort" today offered to conduct a lie detector test for a newly "confessed" but skeptically regarded "suspect" in the Sheppard murder case.

Authorities in Cleveland, where Marilyn Sheppard was bludgeoned to death in 1954, discounted its "25th confessor" to turn up since Dr. Samuel Sheppard was convicted of murdering his wife.

Donald Joseph Wedler, 23, a convicted robber, signed a confession that he killed a Cleveland housewife in a manner similar to that of Mrs. Sheppard's death on July 4, 1954.

But Coroner Samuel B. Gerber in Cleveland pointed out discrepancies between Wedler's account and the trial evidence on which Sheppard, a young osteopath, was convicted of second-degree murder and sentenced to life imprisonment.

Sheriff Ridney B. Thursby said that if Wedler consents he will accept the offer of Gardner's "court of last resort" to investigate the purported confession.

Criminologists of the unofficial "court" wired Thursby an offer to fly Alex Gregory, polygraph expert from Detroit, to give Wedler a lie detector test.

The "court" already has given tests to relatives of Sheppard but has been refused permission to test the young osteopath himself.

'Damn Yankees' Move In on Pitt Stadium

The favorite national pastime, known as baseball, is one of the themes of the major league musical comedy called "Damn Yankees," that Civic Light Opera will present next week at Pitt Stadium, following the current show "Carousel," starring John Raitt, which plays through Saturday.

The other theme of "Damn Yankees" is the Faustian legend, relating a man's complications with women when the Devil helps him recover his youth.

Gretchen Wyler plays the devil's seductive handmaiden, Robert Smith portrays the Devil, himself and Ralph Lowe plays the diabolically rejuvenated ball-player.

With its diamond minded book, laced with fantasy, by George Abbott and Douglass Wallop, and based on the latter's relatively improbable novel, "The Year the Yankees Lost the Pennant," this is the first time that big leaguers and their rabid adherents have submitted to lyric spoofing in a sportive song-and-dance enterprise.

"Damn Yankees" is the tongue-in-cheek fable of an avid fan of the Washington Senators who options his soul to a resourceful Lucifer, so that his favorite team might dethrone the champion New York Yankees. It is a fanciful yarn wherein Satanic trickery plays a vastly entertaining part.

By means of his devilish bargain, a middle-aged family man and fanatical rooter becomes a young miracle batsman and fielder on the Washington roster.

Heading the huge supporting cast of Civic Light Opera's production of "Damn Yankees" are Terry Saunders, Warren Brown, Walter Burke, Lucy Seibert, Don Blakey, Norman Roland, Eric Kirsten, Rickie Wertz, William Glennon, Edmund Rose, Josephine Chase and Adrienne Strathearn.

'Quiet' Engine For New Jet

VIRGINIA CITY, Nev. (UP)—The Curtiss-Wright Corp. has developed a "quiet" jet engine designed to take the ear-splitting racket out of the commercial jet air travel of the future.

The revolutionary new power plant, designated the TJ38 Zephyr, was developed jointly by the Wright Aeronautical Division and Bristol Aero Engines of England.

Officials of Curtiss-Wright demonstrated the new engine Monday.

The second big factor of the Zephyr is its thrust reverser, which enables the pilot to "throw the plane in reverse" much the same as the pilot of a conventional aircraft brakes by reversing the pitch of his propellors.

Doctors Discover Way to Reduce Nephrosis Deaths

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — Two doctors Monday announced the discovery of a new treatment which they said will reduce the mortality rate of nephrosis, a children's kidney disease, from 50 to 20 per cent.

Drs. Milton Rapoport and Wallace W. McCrory, of Children's Hospital here, said the use of steroid hormones in treatment of the dreaded disease had shown "encouraging and impressive reduction of the former high mortality rate." The hormones come from small glands on top of the kidneys.

The report grew out of a two-year study on a group of 30 children.

The two physicians added that for the first time they were able to predict the course of nephrosis in its early stages.

The research project was conducted under grants of the Philadelphia Nephrosis Foundation, the Central New Jersey Nephrosis Foundation and other groups.

3 Memorials

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Michael Powlowsky, who died nine years ago today, July 17, 1948.
Gone, dear father, gone forever,
How we miss your smiling face,
But you left us to remember
None on earth can take your place
A happy home we once enjoyed,
How sweet the memory still;
But death has left a loneliness,
The world can never fill.
Sadly missed by Wife and Children

Nike Sites Being Built in Europe

HEIDELBERG, Germany (UP) —The first two U.S. Army Nike rocket launching sites in Europe are under construction today in West Germany.

Army officials ended a security blackout on the progress of the Nike project to disclose work has begun at two sites west of the Rhine River. German sources said a total of 11 Nike launching sites are planned for West Germany.

It was believed the Nikes will be the new Ajax model, capable of carrying an atomic warhead.

Dog Caught Napping

MUSKEGON, Mich. (UP)—Donald Edsell's watchdog was lying down on the job while his master was away. A burglar, apparently willing to let sleeping dogs lie, broke into Edsell's house and stole $9 while the dog slumbered on the porch.

Scouts See Air Show

VALLEY FORGE (UP)— Air Force pilots put on an acrobatic display at speeds of more than 700 miles an hour Tuesday for thousands of boy campers attending the fourth National Boy Scout Jamboree.

The fliers were the Thunderbirds, the crack Air Force foursome of stunters flying F100 Saberjets.

In a more reflective mood, scouts jammed the highly educational exhibits erected and run by three government agencies: The Soil Conservation, Fish, and Wild Life Services, in cooperation with the conservation departments of Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and New York.

There are three main exhibits showing how nature maintains a balance between soil, water, plants, fish, and animals—the major factors in natures equation.

Of all displays, these are the most overcrowded as boys line up for hundreds of yards waiting for admission to the half hour shows which run from sun up to sun down.

The exhibits are said to be the biggest single program in conservation education ever undertaken by the federal government. One exhibit using fans and watering cans shows how wind and rain erodes away natures most valuable asset—soil. Another demonstrates what makes waters hospitable to fish. Conservation men have built three streams about 100 feet long incorporating improvements on nature such as log dams rock jetties, and other cover which can make streams friendly to game fish.

Other attractions such as flood control exhibits, small plantations to show how trees grow, and forest fire control are all incorporated into the solid conservation education the scouts are receiving at the jamboree.

Indian Beauty Current Light in Brando's Eyes

By ALINE MOSBY

HOLLYWOOD (UP) —The current light in Marlon Brando's eye is a 22-year-old beautiful Indian actress named Anna Kashfi who's as offbeat as he is.

Marlon Brando

Anna, under contract to MGM, finally is getting into top gear in her career in Columbia's "Cowboy" after a long illness. But although her films during her one and a half years here have been few, she achieved local fame as the girl most likely to permanently snare the heart of Hollywood's No 1. bachelor.

Brando, now in Europe working in "The Young Lions," also dates Rita Moreno and other assorted beauties, but one close friend insists he is more serious about Anna and "he's talked of marrying her."

Native of India

The black-haired Miss Kashfi, born in Darjeeling, India, refuses to discuss Brando. But she does confess she is not one of those starlets who concentrates night and day on a full-time career.

In fact, she became an actress by accident. She was visiting London with her engineer father when a Paramount executive she once had met asked her to portray an Indian girl in Spencer Tracy's "The Mountain," then being filmed in Europe.

"I accepted the role because the film had to be finished in Hollywood and I'd get a trip to America" she said in her soft, hesitant voice.

Offered A Contract

After that film, the sloe-eyed actress was packing her bags to return to India when she was offered an MGM contract.

She portrayed a Korean girl in "Battle Hymn." MGM set her for two more pictures but a virus sent her to bed for six months. Now recovered, she's a star in her third picture, "Cowboy," with Glenn Ford and Jack Lemmon. This time she plays a Mexican.

Im taken for many nationalities, depending on the country I'm in," she laughed. "People have thought I was French, Italian, Burmese. I fit into the surroundings—something like a chameleon."

Like Brando, Anna prefers a quiet life away from nightclubs, big parties and the limelight.

Princess Turns Down Invitation To Visit Ireland

LONDON (UP)—Princess Margaret has turned down an invitation to visit Ireland with her latest boy friend because of the sticky diplomatic protocol involved, it was reported today.

Lord Patrick Beresford, 23-year-old peer who has been Margaret's frequent escort in recent months, was reported to have invited her to the July 23 wedding of his brother, the Marquess of Waterford, to Lady Caroline Windham-Quin.

Friends of the Marquess of Waterford said the princess' secretary turned down his invitation because "she has a previous engagement."

Informed sources said Princess Margaret had wanted to go to the wedding but realized she might be stepping on diplomatic toes if she visited republican Ireland.

No member of the British royal family has visited Ireland since 1915 when King George V, Margaret's grandfather, went to Dublin. The southern half of the island was part of Britain then but cut its last links with the Commonwealth in 1948.

A visit by a member of the royal family, even though strictly private, would thus cause a diplomatic flutter. Palace sources said Margaret apparently was advised not to risk any adverse comment by taking up Beresford's invitation.

Saved by a Hare

CHICAGO (UP) — The luck of twenty rabbit's feet worked for a group of babies Monday. Five baby rabbits, washed from their flooded hutch over the week end, were picked up and revived by Mrs. George Lester, who nursed them with a doll's baby bottle.

Drug Firms 'Dig' For New Medicine

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

Sometimes you really have to dig for new medicines.

That is exactly what representatives of various pharmaceutical firms are doing throughout the world. In fact, one of the larger drug manufacturers has some 1,300 salesmen, plus hundreds of volunteer employes, collecting soil samples in an unending search for new antibiotics.

The earth already has yielded numerous medical remedies which, when combined with man's scientific skills, have helped cure the ills of its inhabitants.

The antibiotic Chloromycetin is one example. Soil used in its discovery was South American.

Here is the way one pharmaceutical house gets soil examples.

The salesmen and other employes collect soil from any spot they choose — a field, a backyard, in the midst of a forest. One salesman colector in the western area sent in a sample taken "from the fifth tee at the Washoe Country Golf Course" at Reno, Nevada.

Another came from the flower garden of a Bermuda hotel.

Most soil contains three classes of microscopic plants — molds, bacteria and actinomycetes — and anywhere from five to 20 species of each class.

At the laboratory these samples are put through a long process which includes two incubation periods and two phases of agitation on a shaking machine.

Each species is isolated, grown in test tubes and tested against various bacteria to determine its ability to inhibit growth of specific types of bacteria. Less than a third prove active. Then follows chemical and biological investigation.

Tests are made on animals and a year or longer is required to make certain the antibiotic will not adversely affect humans. Altogether, it may take three or four years to develop a new antibiotic after the soil sample is received.

You never know which soil will produce a new medicine. Maybe your backyard contains the cure for one of mankind's most dreaded diseases.

Surgeon General Clarifies Remark On Cigarettes

WASHINGTON (UP) — U. S. Surgeon General Leroy E. Burney has issued a statement to "clarify" his remark that cancer may be caused by the chemical benzypyrene in cigarettes.

Burney said the chemical forms in the smoke when aromatic oils in tobacco are burned at a high temperature. Pipe and cigar tobaccos burn at a lower temperature and do not "crack" the aromatic oils, he said.

The surgeon general first said flatly in an interview that the presence of the chemical benzypyrene might be a contributing factor to the increase in lung cancer among smokers.

But Burney later issued a "clarifying" statement saying "there are some scientific studies which indicate benzypyrene has been identified in cigarette tars. There is no evidence to indicate, however, that benzypyrene in itself is present in sufficient quantities in cigarette tars to cause human lung cancer."

He called for more research "in this quarter and on the effects of other chemical agents as well as temperature gradients and various specific materials in the original tobacco."

Benzypyrene has been found to produce skin cancer in mice.
